Sec. 114-33. - Planning, heritage, and design commission.

(a) Creation and rules. The planning, heritage, and design commission, which shall have the powers of a city plan commission as established under the provisions of the Wis. Stats. § 62.23(1), is the planning, heritage, and design commission referred to in this chapter.

(b) Planning activities. The planning, heritage, and design commission shall discharge the following duties of a city plan commission under this chapter:

(1) Review and report on all matters referred to it by the common council pursuant to Wis. Stats. § 62.23(5).

(2) Review all applications for conditional uses, hold hearings thereon, and recommend action to the common council, as prescribed in article III of this chapter, pertaining to conditional uses.

(3) Receive from the zoning administrator his or her recommendations as related to the effectiveness of this chapter and report its conclusions and recommendations to the common council not less frequently than once a year.

(c) Historic preservation. As to historic preservation and landmarks preservation, including but not limited to as set forth in chapter 58, the duties of the planning, heritage, and design commission shall be to:

- (1) Develop public support for historic preservation and the location and identification of potential landmarks and landmark sites.
- (2) Develop appropriate criteria and standards for identifying and evaluating neighborhoods, areas, places, structures and improvements within the city which have distinctive character of special historic, aesthetic, architectural, archaeological, or cultural interest or value, and might be classified as landmarks or landmark sites.
- (3) Conduct studies and surveys of neighborhoods, areas, places, structures and improvements within the city for the purpose of determining those of a distinctive character or special historic, aesthetic, architectural, archaeological or cultural interest or value, and of compiling appropriate descriptions, facts, lists and files.
- (4) Promote public education, interest and support for the preservation and enhancement of such landmarks, sites or characteristics.
- (5) Cooperate with and advise the common council, plan commission and other agencies and departments of government with regard to such matters as may be appropriate with respect to landmarks, sites or characteristics.
- (6) Cooperate with and enlist assistance from the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the state historical society, the county historical society and other agencies, groups or individuals active in the field of historic and cultural preservation.
- (7) Develop and recommend ordinances, legislation and programs and otherwise provide information for the purpose of historic preservation to the common council and other governmental bodies.
- (8) Work on a voluntary basis with the owners of landmarks or landmark sites or areas, advising them on the benefits, problems and techniques of preservation and encouraging their participation in preservation activities.
- (9) Within the scope of chapter 114, the planning, heritage, and design commission shall have the following responsibilities:
 - (i) Review all applications for a variance within the special district "H" and concerning any site designated as a landmark, to determine compliance with the provisions of the landmarks preservation ordinance, and make recommendations thereon to the board of appeals.

(ii) Review all applications for a conditional use or amendment within the special district "H" or affecting any site designated as a landmark, to determine compliance with the provisions of the landmarks preservation ordinance, and submit written recommendations thereon to the common council.

(d) Downtown area design review. As to downtown area design review, the duties of the planning, heritage, and design commission shall be to review applications for activities as described in chapter 114, article VII, division 12 for conformance with the downtown design guidelines for all new exterior construction activities, all building expansions, and all exterior renovation/rehabilitation activities for projects whose impact will result in the alteration of the visual character or impact of the façade.

(1) Application for design review shall be made to the director of city development.

(2) The planning, heritage, and design commission shall review applications during open meetings. Reviews shall be conducted within 45 days after a complete application is filed with the director of city development or the activity shall be deemed approved.

(3) The planning, heritage, and design commission shall issue written findings to the chief building inspector within 45 days after the application was filed with the director of city development. The written findings shall indicate whether or not the proposed activity being reviewed meets the downtown area design guidelines, and the findings shall be immediately transmitted to the applicant. If the design guidelines are found not to be met, the applicant may file revised plans for review by the planning, heritage, and design commission addressing any deficiencies.

(4) The chief building inspector shall issue building and/or occupancy permits within the downtown area for projects requiring review by the planning, heritage, and design commission, after receiving written approval by the planning, heritage, and design commission, or by the common council, except as otherwise provided herein, and in addition to other approvals required by law, ordinance or regulation.
