Second Chance Reentry Program (Racine Vocational Ministries)

Racine Vocational Ministry's Reentry Program is designed to reintegrate previously incarcerated Racine residents into the community and their families. The participants are selected by the Department of Corrections in which they are considered to be at high risk of returning to prison. This program offers case management support and provides a network of social, economic, job placement, educational and faith-based opportunities that are available to the offender as well as their families. These are low-income individuals.
