

Racine Public Library Report for February 2026 Board Packet

Executive Director's Report - February

Prepared by Nick Demske

It has been a really great start to 2026 at the RPL. Many exciting things happened in our first month of the year, but none more exciting than the return of Deputy Director Lizzie. I'm really proud of our team for filling in the gaps for her so well during maternity leave, and all in all things went very well even in her absence, but her absence was felt and now that she's back, the library can continue operating at full capacity. And now we have a tiny, new addition to the RPL family (baby Aeden)!

The other biggest thing that happened is something that didn't happen. As I mentioned previously, the library was in conversation with city leadership about going to referendum in 2026. After several serious conversations and some careful reflection, we've decided not to pursue that option this year.

Referendum decisions are always very multifaceted, and so many elements went into this choice. One of the biggest pieces, though, is the reality that--after two referenda passed in the last election--taxes went up more significantly than they have in quite some time as a result (primarily in support of the school district). And it feels like the proposition of going back to voters and asking them to raise their own taxes again so immediately wouldn't make for the most strategic timing. This however opens up the year for us to focus on strategic planning, overhauling the handbook and focusing on some other overdue, foundational projects that would have been very difficult to squeeze in, if we were planning for a ballot measure. We also happened to notice that our library neighbors in south milwaukee are going to referendum this year, so now we'll have the benefit of watching their progress, being in conversation with them and learning from their experiences.

There were many other wins, even just in our first month. Business Manager Becky submitted a Letter of Intent to Racine Community Foundation that, if accepted and funded, would allow us to co-sponsor and build the capacity of the Parks Department's Main Gallery program, which pays kids to make art in the summer. Our new Programming Librarian, Emily, submitted a small grant through ALA for some additional programming support funds. I had several meetings with several bank affiliates to speak early on in the year about sponsorship opportunities for the RPL. We launched a new staff intranet landing page, and we integrated a new scheduling software building-wide (Homebase) for greater accountability and transparency, both for staff and administration. Big thanks to Matt, Melissa, the whole DSI team, Lizzie and others for putting so much energy into launching those efforts.

Since this report is focused on the first month of the new year, I wanted to add the 3 goals we put in the RPL's section of the city's 2026 budget book. Until we have a proper strategic plan, these three goals basically act as our proto-strategic plan; commitments we've publicly made to work on over the course of this coming year. To my knowledge, these haven't really been shared with the board in the past and I think it just makes sense to change that, starting with this year.

The 2026 goals as appeared in the budget are as follows:

Goal Statement #1

Increase the number of registered RPL card users by 5%

Not counting the students of Racine Unified School District, who are automatically given a library card number upon enrollment, the RPL currently has 32,633 card-holding users. This isn't even half the city's population, let alone half our service population (137,000). In 2026, we will aim to increase this number by 5%, or 1,632 additional card holders.

Notes/comments for this statement:

- We will increase outreach efforts in 2026, supporting library card registrations at each event.
- We will design a promotional campaign for the year specifically targeted to increase this foundational metric, which acts as the key to engaging with the majority of library services
- We will reorient this as a priority for staff to engage library users around, even when they're using the library in ways that don't require a library card (such as making copies or using the wifi)

Goal Statement #2

Increase avg program attendance by 10% in 2026

In 2024 we tracked 9000+ program attendees with an average program attendance of 17 per program (522 total programs). In 2025, even though staff have increased the amount of programs they're hosting, the attendance numbers are projected at this point to remain flat. In 2026, we'll focus on the amount of people who are positively impacted by our programs, rather than our number of programs as an output.

Notes/comments for this statement:

- We will look for areas where data might be getting lost in the collection process and tighten up that system as much as possible

- We will put less focus on staff simply hosting more programs and instead pivot to ensuring all the programs we offer are attracting attendance, eliminating the programs to start which are reaching the least amount of people.
- We will shift staff focus from more significant amounts of time planning and executing many programs, to working to successfully promote and attract people to the programs we continue to support

Goal Statement #3

Increase our “ROI Impact” number for the community by at least $1M from 2024 ROI

In 2025, the RPL’s deputy director--using a strict methodology and value calculator utilized by other public libraries--did a holistic Return-On-Investment calculation for the library’s services in 2024. The ROI was nearly $13.5M for the library, which had only a $4.4M operating budget that year. Because this ROI number is more all-encompassing than maybe any other metric we have, we aim to increase it by at least $1M in 2026, from the figure we have for 2024.

Notes/comments for this statement:

- There are a number of drivers to increase this number, but the ultimate metric driving it most broadly is just people using and benefitting from the library
- One important metric that this calculation incorporates is items circulated, including both physical and digital circulations. This number will inherently be increased if we have more active card holders, as mentioned in Goal 1, but we’ll be reorienting some of our promotional efforts towards more collections-focused messaging.
- Goal 2 would also help drive this number higher, and so our promotions around programming will be more targeted
- We’ll identify services not captured in this methodology to continue increasing the accuracy of this estimation going forward

I want to close by including a handwritten card I received from a much beloved patron of ours, Deb Madigan. Many of us know Deb and have been seeing her and serving her in this building for years. However, she recently had a surgery which, for a short time, made her unable to come in. Like so many other patrons, she found our home delivery service to be a big blessing during even that short time--so much so that she wrote a note to the library director detailing why the experience was so great, and calling out our home delivery coordinator, Katie Day, by name in the letter. Read it and hear from the words of a patron just how wonderful a service this can be, when the right people are carrying it out.

Katie Day took care of all of these tasks for me. She even picked up my garbage bin which blew over and put a small bag of garbage in it for me - above & beyond her job description. What a lovely, helpful woman.

The library is such an essential part of my life. I really couldn't do without it. Thanks again to the library & Katie for this wonderful service.

Sincerely, Deb Madigan

Jan. 9, 2024 - 10:15 A.M

Dear Nick,

I am writing to thank the library for offering a home delivery service, something I never thought I would need.

On Wednesday of this past week I had a pain pump surgery in hopes I will be able to stand up straight & walk again. I have at least a week long recovery at home. I had a return due, a hold to pick up, and a bag of book donations for the Friends.

Katie Day took care of all of these tasks for me. She even picked up my garbage bin which blew over and put a small bag of garbage in it for me - above & beyond her job description, what a lovely, helpful woman.

The library is such an essential part of my life. I really couldn't do without it. Thanks again to the library & Katie for this wonderful service.

Sincerely, Deb Madigan

Deputy Director's Report - February 2025

Prepared by Lizzie Hjelle

- Deputy Director Projects

- I returned from maternity leave on January 20th, and I was excited to jump back into many ongoing projects! A large portion of my time this month has been focused on preparing the library's annual report for the Department of Public Instruction, and much of the same information will be used to calculate Racine Public Library's 2025 Return on Investment. I remain confident that our ROI for 2025 will be greater than what we calculated for 2024.
- The rest of my time has been occupied by continuing to evaluate our collections and services, and by determining a project outline for the ongoing revision of the Library Staff Handbook. Selectors of adult fiction, nonfiction, and AV will be coming together for a Collection Development Palooza in late February to review circulation data, establish collection goals and best practices, and collaboratively strategize ways we reinvigorate our physical collection.
- A Note on Data Presentation - Last fall, I significantly changed the way library services data was presented in this packet, moving away from tables displaying disaggregated monthly data towards more visual presentation of year-to-date information. It is my hope that this has been a helpful change, but I am always open to feedback on what would best serve the Board's interests.

- Feel-Good Moments

- A patron called the library in late January to express her appreciation for the Bookmobile staff bringing her items to her vehicle despite the frigid temperatures.
- A patron called me personally to express her appreciation for Youth Services Supervisor Keiko and her expertise in helping her grandchildren find books they would enjoy reading. Her grandchildren enjoyed the books so much that they made Keiko a card to express their gratitude.

Social Worker's Report - February 2025

Prepared by Ashley Cedeno, Library Social Worker

The purpose of the library social worker's Februaryly report is to document and analyze the social services provided within the library setting. This report tracks key aspects of the social worker's role, ensuring accountability, identifying trends, and improving services.

2026 Views & Visitors

2026	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	Jun	Jul	Aug	Sep	Oct	Nov	Dec	Totals
Views	27,193												27,193
Visitors	7,686												7,686

January’s views and visitors surpassed not just our average monthly viewers and visitors in 2025, but also that of any specific month in 2025.

- Views increased 3,062 from December (24,131) to January (27,193)
- Highest 2025 monthly views was 26,896 in March

Factors:

- January was the second month the new program bookmarks were active, which prominently display a QR code routing to the website calendar for registration and more info.
- 785 of the new views are accounted for by an increase in newsletter clicks (410 in December to 1,195 in January).

January’s most-viewed pages:

- Home - 16,427 views (up from 15,830)
- Calendar - 2,603 views (up from 1,326)
- The Natural Library - 759 (up from 19)
- Library GO! - 542 views (up from 399)
- Hours & Locations - 538 views (up from 489)

Changes:

- The Natural Library was a new addition to the top five most-viewed pages in January due to placement in an early January newsletter, bumping Borrow from the Library from the list.
- Google Analytics reports that “On January 9, 2026, views for page path "/calendar-of-events/" spiked to 371, a sharp increase from an expected 46.” This was the first day that we trialed the new event registration section of the newsletter. We don’t suspect the activity was tied to any one program, as the programs on the calendar that day or the following were routine, non-registration programs.

Technical Services Report of January Activities 2026

In January TSD staff placed orders for 900 items and received 208 previously ordered items. A total of 708 items were cataloged and processed for the library catalog.

The project to label abbreviated series statements and numbers on Adult and Juvenile fiction collections has continued.

Inventory of various library collections continues.

9400 seed packets, so far, have been prepared by Dawn Seeger in preparation for the March 20th reopening of the highly popular Seed Catalog.

Programming

During January, the Digital Services and Innovation Lab staff hosted five programs, engaging 33 community members in hands-on learning and technology experiences.

Podcasting Studio.

The podcasting studio facilitated 8 appointments in January.

Tech Support

The DSI Staff provided community tech support, addressing 524 questions in January.

This month, the DSI full-time staff attended training for our new timing software, which we are rolling out this year. We are getting training on the new print software on 2/18.

The Racine Public Library purchased KnowB4 security training. We sent out our first phishing test in January. February is training month. We will then send out another phishing test in April. Those who do not pass the test in April will be required to complete additional training.

Homebase, building-wide scheduling software, is now being used for all staff. This will help Leadership know who is in the building and where they are supposed to be.
